0.2 About the Adventure

0.2.1 Campaign Themes

This campaign is using themes as listed below. Use this list to determine if you are interested in running this kind of campaign. In the game, you can encounter themes of:

- TODO
- TODO
- TODO

0.2.2 Campaign Setting

TODO; Lorem ipsum dolor sit amet, consectetur adipiscing elit. Ut purus elit, vestibulum ut, placerat ac, adipiscing vitae, felis. Curabitur dictum gravida mauris. Nam arcu libero, nonummy eget, consectetur id, vulputate a, magna. Donec vehicula augue eu neque.

0.3 Running the Adventure

To run this adventure you will need Stormlight Handbook containing all rules and guidelines on how to run Cosmere® RPG. This book contains only adventure-specific details and suggestions on how to run it.

You can read (or paraphrase) a text in such a box to your players. Alternatively, you can describe the scene using your own words.

Whenever a character's name appears in bold, it means there is corresponding stat block available. You can use it to get more info about the character's attributes and abilities.

Items appearing in bold italic have special rules you can find at the end of this book.

Boxes like this will help you understand the reason behind some of the design choices. Those boxes have no impact on the game, but they may help you modify some elements of the adventure if you so choose.

Path to Radiance

When a plot might allow for a certain Radiant Spren to be attracted by the player's actions, that will be indicated with such a box. However, use your own judgment whenever a player does something not accounted by this book.

Spoiler Info

On many occasions, this book will reference events or characters from "Stormlight Archive" series. This box will warn you of spoilers, but also it will provide original source if you wished to read more details about what's referenced from official books.

If you are using this book in electronic version, it has also several quality-of-life improvements to make your life easier when you navigate this book:

Whenever a name of a chapter or section appears (e.g. "Running the Adventure"), you can click on it to quickly go to the chapter in question.

All characters' names (e.g. Odium) are links that lead to Dramatis Personæ chapter, where all the NPCs are listed.

Unique items (e.g. TODO - Example Loot) and adversaries (e.g. Hungry Axehound) are also links that will lead you to the page with their unique rules.

0.3.1 Adjusting Difficulty

This book assumes your players will form a party of TODO characters starting at TODO level. However, it is perfectly fine to have a different size of your group and/or to start playing at a different level (e.g. because the characters already shared another adventure together). Also, it is possible that challenges presented in this book are not aligning with strong suits of the party.

If you see that the balance is a bit off, feel free to adjust the difficulty. You can change a number or tier of the enemies, modify endeavors' requirements or weave some other changes into the story.

0.3.2 Handling Canon

Despite treating original source with respect, this adventure is not canon. While playing the game your primary focus should be fun. For everyone, "fun" means something different - either following official lore to the letter, creating your own touching story, or just hitting bad guys with your sword. Make sure you know what is fun for you and your group and make it your primary objective. If that means modifying this adventure or straying away from the canon - go for it!

You can find more information on that topic in "Canon and Continuity" section of Stormlight Handbook.

0.3.3 Playing with Singers

0.4 Adventure Summary

Here is a brief summary of the plot of the story. You can use it to quickly familiarize yourself with the adventure events.

0.4.1 Chapter 1 Summary

TODO; Lorem ipsum dolor sit amet, consectetur adipiscing elit. Ut purus elit, vestibulum ut, placerat ac, adipiscing vitae, felis.

0.4.2 Chapter TODO Summary

TODO; Lorem ipsum dolor sit amet, consectetur adipiscing elit. Ut purus elit, vestibulum ut, placerat ac, adipiscing vitae, felis.

0.5 Dramatis Personæ

Following NPCs and factions appear in the adventure:

- Hoid (he/him) - nobody really important...
- TODO - todo, todo do do do do...

0.6 Before Starting the Campaign

Here are some tips and suggestions intended for the GM. Following them is not mandatory, but it might help you prepare and run the game.

0.6.1 Required Knowledge

TODO; Lorem ipsum dolor sit amet, consectetur adipiscing elit. Ut purus elit, vestibulum ut, placerat ac, adipiscing vitae, felis. Curabitur dictum gravida mauris. Nam arcu libero, nonummy eget, consectetur id, vulputate a, magna. Donec vehicula augue eu neque.

0.6.2 Read the Adventure

You, as a GM, are expected to know the overall story of the campaign, so you could present the events with greater ease to your players, and, if a situation calls for it, modify them to your table's needs. Please familiarize yourself with most important NPCs, their goals and beliefs.

0.6.3 Players' Expectations

Inform the players that TODO; Lorem ipsum dolor sit amet, consectetur adipiscing elit. Ut purus elit, vestibulum ut, placerat ac, adipiscing vitae, felis. Curabitur dictum gravida mauris. Nam arcu libero, nonummy eget, consectetur id, vulputate a, magna. Donec vehicula augue eu neque.

On top of that, please discuss with your players following topics:

- How serious should the adventure be?
- What topics players would prefer to avoid during the game?
- Is there anything the players would like to see in the game?
- Are the players comfortable with their characters dying?
- Are the players comfortable with characters' romance, nudity or other sexual content?
- If you are of age - should your group allow alcoholic drinks?
- What rule variants should be in effect?
- How often should your group meet and how long should a single game session take?
- How should you handle situations when one player cannot attend a game session?

Gathering answers to those questions is not a requirement, but it will help you create a comfortable and enjoyable atmosphere for everyone.

0.6.4 Create Player Characters

Unless your players have their characters ready after previous adventures, they must create a new party. This book contains several pre-made character sheets you can use in your game (see Appendix D.), but you should encourage players to create more personalized heroes for the story.

While creating new characters, you might want to follow those guidelines:

- Encourage Human Ancestry, unless the player is familiar with more complex Singer rules and culture.
- Encourage TODO culture or at least an expertise in it, as most of the story will take place in that area.
- Share Character Backstory Ideas table with your players for possible inspirations for characters, their motivations and goals for the story.
- If a player plans playing as Knight Radiant, make sure you know what spren to introduce in the story.
- TODO - other

0.6.5 Character Relationships

Allow players to determine how their characters know each other and what is the reason they are traveling together. Establishing characters' relations before the start of the adventure will make it less likely the heroes will be motivated to split the party and follow their own goals.

You can add more details to character's relationship by suggesting each player to ask about some specific details two other characters. Players can think of their own questions they want to ask each other or they can choose something from the list of below:

- TODO
- TODO
- TODO
- TODO

0.6.6 Character Backstory

Encourage players to write a short character backstory to better root them in the world and the story. Consider if any NPCs from those backstories could make an appearance in this adventure and how they can enrich the story. You can modify scenes described in this book to include those NPCs, for example:
